

Microdermabrasion

表皮磨皮

Introduction

Microdermabrasion utilises tiny crystals to resurface superficial layers of the skin, and by increasing vacuum pressure, deeper layers can be evenly penetrated.

Clinical Efficacy

Microdermabrasion is suitable for all types of skin and is effective in improving the appearance of:

- Blackheads
- Pores
- Uneven skin tone
- Fine lines
- Pigmentation
- Acne and acne marks
- Sun-damaged or mature skin

During & After Treatment

A mild scratching sensation will be felt during treatment. Mild redness may occur which usually lasts from a few hours to a day depending on the aggressiveness of the peel.

* Result may vary. Please consult your doctor in advance.
